AN APPEAL FOR HELP

In an effort to assist the men who are serving overseas, the Salvation Army has again reorganized their Red Shield Women's Auxiliary. They will work with the same purpose as during the last war—to make bandages and knit scarves and other woollen goods.

All women, regardless of creed or denomination, are requested to join this auxiliary. The initial meeting will be held in the Salvation Army hall, Coleman, this Friday evening at 7.30, and continue weekly on the same evening.

Wool is urgently needed for this good work, and any donations will be greatly appreciated. A call for clothing for English children who have been evacuated from danger zones, has been issued, and any men's clothing for local transient work will be put to good use.

VALENTINO RINALDI PASSES SUDDENLY

One of the best known figures in the Crows' Nest Pass died very suddenly about three o'clock on Sunday afternoon last, in the person of Valentino Rinaldi, a native of Italy.

"Val," as he was popularly known, resided on Stuart Street, and after having his noon luncheon in a main street restaurant, strolled as far as the Blairmore Motors garage. After talking with some parties for a time, he complained of not feeling just right and repaired to the back seat of a car near by. A few minutes later investigation disclosed that his body was lifeless. Medical aid and police were called. Death was apparently due from heart trouble.

"Val" was about 48 years of age and had been a resident of Blairmore for about thirty years. He was very well known throughout the district, to some as "Val," to others as "Count," and still to other nearer associates as "Porky." In 1914 he enlisted with the 102nd Battalion, and served till the end of hostilities. Upon returning, he took up ranching about midway between Frank and Lillie, on what was known as the Blue Grouse ranch. And still later he engaged in poolroom operation in Blairmore until entering semi-retirement here. Only recently he interviewed Mike Rose at Vancouver, in the hope of securing the re-opening of the old Rose pool hall near the Cosmopolitan hotel. His mission to the coast was unsuccessful.

He is survived by a sister, in South America, and two brothers, Romeo, of Penikese, B.C., former proprietor of the Orpheum theatre here, and Alex, building contractor at Champion, both of whom came to Blairmore for the funeral, which took place Wednesday afternoon, when the remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery following service at St. Anna's church. Pallbearers were M. Giamanuzzi, Joe Stefano, Pete Bodio, J. Sineato, John Rinaldi and P. Beltrame.

CAR LICENSES COST LESS OCT. 1

First reduction of passenger or pleasure car licenses this year will take effect on October 1st, according to information which officials of the Alberta Motor Association have received from the provincial secretary's department.

To those taking out motor licenses on or after October 1st, there will be a 40 per cent reduction on the annual license fee. The license will expire next March 31st. Licenses for motor trucks were reduced by 40 per cent on September 1st, and hold good until the end of next March.

Next January 1st, there will be a 75 per cent reduction in passenger car and motor truck licenses, so that cars may be operated in the first three months of 1940 at one-quarter of the annual license fee.

Government officials also have announced that up to the end of September there will be a 30 per cent rebate on the passenger car license fee if plates are turned in by that time, or 20 per cent on plates returned to the department by January 10th next. A rebate of 20 per cent on truck licenses is allowed up to January 10th.

ANTONIO MARUCA PASSES

The remains of Antonio Maruca, who died on Friday, were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery on Sunday afternoon, following service at St. Anne's church. The funeral was largely attended and the procession was headed by the West Canadian Collieries' band.

He had been a resident of Blairmore for fourteen years, coming here from Italy. He is survived by his wife and one son, Felix, residing in Blairmore.

Duke Of Kent Takes Up Masonic Duties Of His Great Uncle

Masonically, July 19 seems a propitious date for the Duke of Kent. He was invested Senior Grand Warden and installed Provincial Grand Master of Wiltshire on that date in 1933 and 1934. But this July 19 stood out prominently, for on it he was installed Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England in succession to his great uncle the Duke of Connaught, for 38 years Grand Master. Some ten thousand Masons from all parts of the world witnessed the ceremony in Olympia. They had the unexpected pleasure of seeing the King, as a Past Grand Master of Grand Lodge and patron of English Freemasonry, install his brother. They could not resist cheering him—an unusual thing at these ceremonies. At these private functions His Majesty has no trace of nervousness or hesitation. The Duke of Kent found himself momentarily overawed by the ordeal, but he soon regained confidence and carried through the ritual in an efficient manner. He is carrying on a tradition of centuries. The King reminded his brother: "Except for one period of 30 years a member of our house has occupied the throne of Grand Masonry for over a century and a half. For the past 65 years the throne was filled by our grandfather, King Edward VII, and then by our great uncle, the Duke of Connaught."—London Daily Sketch.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Twenty women in Vermilion, 120 miles east of Edmonton, volunteered their services to the Canadian Red Cross Society in its war work.

Canada had a favorable balance of trade of $175,351,500 in the first seven months of 1939, compared with $101,884,682 in the corresponding period last year, the Dominion bureau of statistics reports.

The government is requisitioning a number of government vessels and privately-owned vessels for war purposes and is outfitting them for service. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, defence minister, announced at Ottawa.

Eight hundred Poles contributed $1,700 at a mass meeting in Hamilton, Ont., for Red Cross relief of their countrymen resisting the German invasion. The Polish colony here previously had raised $3,000 for the Red Cross.

A survey of Canadian homes to learn who would be willing to take in children and old people from Great Britain will be made under the Canadian Women's Committee, Margaret P. Hyndman, Toronto director of the organization, announced.

A national appeal for funds will be launched Nov. 18, it was announced by the national council of the Red Cross Society of Canada after an emergency meeting at Government House. The council decided against setting an objective at present.

Assistance of Canada's 100,000 boy scouts in any capacity in which they can usefully serve has been offered to Prime Minister King by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian general council of the Boy Scouts' Association.

Mayor Ralph Day announced in Toronto that the Royal Winter fair and the annual automobile show, both scheduled for early fall, had been called off. The Coliseum, used for the fair, and the Canadian National automobile building will be used for the housing of troops.

Fight Against Tuberculosis

Disease Caused More Than 6,000 Deaths In Canada Last Year

Specialists from all parts of Canada gathered at the annual meeting of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association at Winnipeg to discuss plans for more unified action between Dominion and provincial authorities in the fight against tuberculosis. The disease caused more than 6,000 deaths in Canada last year.

A successful campaign to educate the public in Quebec province on tuberculosis treatment, which had resulted in a 100 per cent. increase in the number of persons seeking advice at dispensaries and clinics, was described in a paper prepared by Dr. LaSalle Laberge, of Quebec City and delivered by Dr. Arthur Powers of Hull, Que.

The paper said that need for the campaign was shown by the fact that although Quebec's population was only 28 per cent. of the total population of Canada, the province accounted for 43 per cent. of the total death rate from tuberculosis.

HOME SERVICE

DELIGHTFUL GIFTS YOU CAN QUICKLY MAKE

Bathroom Boxes, Gay, Useful

Splash-proof and gay as a garden hose, this utility bathroom box. Grand for face tissue, toiletries—a charming gift!

To make it, cover with oiled cloth an ordinary cardboard box having an attached top. Use a small patterned oiled cloth in cheery hues of red, green, blue or yellow.

You can snap out the cover in a few minutes, cutting pieces of oiled cloth for front, sides, back, bottom and cover of box. Cut flap, if there is one, in one piece with cover. And cut another piece for facing inside of cover.

Now bind edges of each piece with bias cotton binding in white or harmonizing color as in Figure 1. Lay pieces in place on cardboard box and whip together along bound edges as Figure 2 shows. Fasten flap with snap.

And now that goods are ripe, you can make all sorts of pretty new gadgets from them—lamp-shades, candy bowls, soapflake holders.

Get complete directions and diagrams for these and other gifts from our 32-page booklet. Smart cellophane cases for linens and china, unusual knitting bags, bookrack table, puppets, doll bassinets, many more delightful novelties.

Send 15c for your copy of the "Hand-Made Gift Novelties" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

- 113—"Secrets of Successful Candy Making."
- 108—"Making Plants and Flowers Grow Indoors."

WOW! BIG NEWS!

A YOUTHFUL NEEDLE

By Anne Adams

You'll look gay and sweet as little sister in this adorable dress with its hip-shaped yoke and lively young lines. Perfect for a school frock. Anne Adams' Pattern 4209, for as you'll see in the illustrations of the accompanying Sewing Instructor, there's nothing to its making. The skirt that swirls and flares so beguilingly, is circular in style, with only a single front seam! Think of it—no seams to fuss with at side or back! The pockets are set on a no-angle. You'll like either of the two sleeves—the puffed style with the well-shaped, stitched bands, or the slashed, short flared sleeves. For extra snap, make the yoke, sleeve bands, pockets and waist all in brilliant contrast.

Pattern 4209 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric. Send 25c stamps (25c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

The Value Of Birds

Experts calculate that six to ten years without birds would bring to a close the earth's entire system of animate nature. Insects would increase to such proportions that everything would be smothered or devoured.

Young foxes, wolves, and bears are called pups; young beaver, mink, and muskrat are called kits.

BOTH MISSIONARIES WITH WORLD WIDE INFLUENCE

High Commissioner George L. Carpenter, newly appointed General of the Salvation Army, visits Jack Miner, the Canadian Nationalist and helps him Canada. Jack Miner who owns the Jack Miner Bird sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario, Canada, catches all varieties of birds and places a band on their legs to study the route of migration.

To spread the gospel of Jesus Christ, Jack Miner puts a verse of scripture on one side of the tag, thus every person who shoots a tagged bird gets a verse of scripture. This has resulted in the hunters of North America calling them "Jack Miner's missionary geese."

MEMORIAL CAIRN IN THE WINDERMERE

Sixty-five years after his death, David Thompson, said to be the greatest land geographer who ever lived, but who died in obscure poverty in Montreal, was honored with a memorial cairn at Wilmer, B.C., in the Windermere valley, September 4. The simple cairn of rock to which residents of the Windermere valley contributed, was unveiled by Dr. Mary Crawford of Winnipeg after an address by Judge P. W. Howay of New Westminster, B.C., noted historian and director of the National Sites and Monuments Board.

Capt. E. N. Russell, superintendent of Yoho and Kootenay National Parks, Field, B.C., was in charge of the arrangements. The dedication included the reading of Bliss Carman's poem, "David Thompson," and the singing of the ballad "David Thompson," composed by John Murray Gibson of Montreal.

David Thompson, with extraordinary accuracy, placed on the map the main routes of natural travel in 1,200,000 square miles in Canada and 500,000 square miles in the United States; surveyed the headwaters of the Mississippi, and discovered a new route to Lake Athabasca.

Air Safety

New Device To Prevent Fires On Air Craft

Canadians will be interested to learn that a device designed to prevent or put out fire in the engine of an aircraft has been adopted by the Air Ministry and is being made standard equipment on Royal Air Force machines. It is known as the Graviner equipment, and was invented by Capt. H. M. Salmon, a retired officer of the Royal Indian Marine.

Briefly a copper bottle of the fire-extinguishing medium, methyl-bromide, is mounted near the engine and is connected by pipes to those parts, such as the carburetor, where fire sometimes occurs. There are four switches, any one of which will release the liquid, which immediately vaporizes. One switch can be operated by the pilot. A second switch, consisting of a pendulum held in position by a spring, will release the methyl-bromide in the event of a head-on crash.

A third switch is worked by gravity and operates if the machine turns over after landing. This switch can be put out of action if the pilot is going to perform aerobatics.

The fourth switch is a flame detector, and if fire breaks out, the flame or heat will burn up a piece of celluloid in the switch and bring the extinguisher into action.

The new device should be a safeguard against the more usual causes of fire in airplanes, and will undoubtedly be responsible for the saving of many lives.—St. Catharines Standard.

Passed All Tests

An outstanding achievement of British engineering enterprise is the building of a Diesel locomotive to run on the highest railway line in the world, near La Paz, the capital of Bolivia. The engine has now passed all tests, including the six-mile climb with a gradient of one in 14 along a series of sharp "S" curves from La Paz to the plateau 2,000 feet above the city and 16,000 feet above sea level.

ISAIAH: FORETELLING THE BIRTH OF THE MESSIAH

Golden text: His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace, Isaiah 9:6.

Leviticus: Isaiah 7:14; 9:1-7; 11:1-5. Devotional reading: Luke 1:46-55.

Explanations and Comments

The Promised Sign, Isaiah 7:14. Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. The prophecy must have been intended by Isaiah as a sign of encouragement to Ahaz before a child shortly to be born, could arrive at years of observation the enemies of Judah would be brought to nought. At the same time, "it is evident that the child is no ordinary one, from the way in which the prophet refers to him as Lord of the land (8:8), and from the titles given him in 9:6. The child is, in fact, the Messiah, whose advent Isaiah seems to have expected in the near future in connection with the Assyrian invasion (9:1-7; 11:1-9). (Dummelow).

The child shall be called Immanuel, a name meaning "God is with us" (8:10). "The Child whom the prophet has in mind received this symbolic name by the express pledge of God's presence with his people. Christ is in the highest conceivable sense Immanuel." (Dummelow).

The Character and Government of the Coming Ideal Ruler, Isaiah 11:1-5. At the close of the preceding chapter, the fall of Assyria is pictured as the falling of cedars of Lebanon by the axe of Jehovah, himself. A cedar once felled puts forth no shoots: the Assyrian power shall give rise to no more. It is the prophet's thought. But there shall come a shoot out of the stock of Jesse (Jesse was the father of David), and a branch out of the roots shall bear fruit. The prophet thus likens the house of David to an oak, which when cut-down puts out a new growth.

"The great fulfilment of these words is seen in the birth of our Lord. The once majestic stem of Jesse was reduced to a humble, unknown family for which the land had no room. The tree of Jesse has leveled all the proud growth of the Hebrew forest, and the tree of this family has suffered with the rest. But the root sent up a new shoot and branch. Out of that cut-down tree sprang the Life which renews the world, and has given such hope and joy to mankind as were never known before." (F. E. Meyer). Compare Luke 1:32.

Mixed His Characters

Good Story About A Butcher And His Fussy Customer

Bruce Barton in the course of literary argument at a reception: "My friend's literary references are mixed. He reminds me of a story. "A lady went into a butcher's and asked for a pound of fillet of beef. "The butcher cut it off. "There you are, ma'am. Just 14 ounces." "But the lady said, 'No, I want a pound exactly. It's for an important dish at an important luncheon.' "The butcher cut off a bigger chunk. "Eighteen ounces. That all right, ma'am?" "No," said the lady—and she was a rich and valued customer—no, I want you to cut me off a pound, no more and no less."

"Oh, grounded the butcher, as he took up his knife again, 'you said your pound of flesh? Why, you're a regular Shylock Holmes.'"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

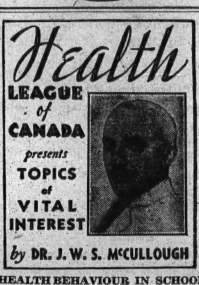

A Good Salesman

Prospective Buyer: "But I don't exactly like the looks of your '39 model in front."

Salesman: "But look at the lines from the back. Doesn't it look good from that view?"

Prospective Buyer: "Yes, but—"

Salesman: "Well, that's all anybody ever sees of this car."

In Ontario's new program for elementary schools, health has been given a foremost place. Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education for Ontario in the last issue of "Health" pointed out that in the new program the goal of health education will be health behaviour — "Not what the child knows about health but what he does about it."

In the past, health has been merely a subject for pupils to study so as to be able to answer questions. Often a pupil would pass a test with flying colors but there would be no improvement in his or her health. The new plan is to inspire pupils to do something about their own health. There will be regular checking of health habits to see that knowledge and practice go hand in hand, along with a carefully planned course of exercises in physical training. The new program also implies daily, as well as annual or semi-annual examination of pupils individually. By this means, diseases in their early stages will be detected, as well as deficiencies in height, weight, hearing and sight.

In making provision for greater attention to health, Ontario's educational authorities have revised values placed on different studies. For example, arithmetic has long been given first place; how it will be in a possible fifth place of importance. "It has been all too common" says the Minister of Education "to find the first morning hours and at least 30 per cent. of the day's working hours, as well as the best of home work, devoted to this study."

CHAPTER V.

Sick at heart with Berthe's coldness, Alan sought his old friend Pierre to learn what had been the comment at the Revillon Press on his sudden departure for the north coast.

"You mak' queek start, eh, dat night you leave for de nor?" laughed the big Frenchman when he and Julie had welcomed the wanderer. "Dose police, dey were ver' cross, when you beat dem to Whale River."

"What did they say when they got back?"

"Wal, I hear dem talk wid de boss. Dey say you race dem to Whale no you can tell Nell Campbell about de money."

"What did Gabriel say?"

"He say no, you went for dog."

"Good old Gabriel, thought Alan, he's still my friend. Then he asked: 'What has Rivard been saying? I know that he's done all he could to turn the Madame and Berthe against me. Berthe wouldn't talk to me tonight.'"

Pierre scowled and shook his head. "Ah, dat es sad—ver' bad. Madame Dessane she lak' Arsene, yes, she lak' dat young feller. But Mam'selle Berthe she weel be all right. Ees dat woman, Hanbury, dat mak' all de troubl'. She turn Fort George on hees head, so w'en Arsene tell Berthe you talk to her to-night."

It was evident that McQueen intended to ignore the matter of the race to Whale River, was satisfied, as was most of Fort George, that Alan had met McCord. For a space the eyes of the youth met the other's in a fixed stare.

"I'm starting in about a week," said Alan. "Are you men strong-water men?"

"Yes, they're good river men. Slade and I were brought up in a canoe."

"Good thing for you. There's some had poling water on this river."

"Well, when you're ready to start, let me know," said McQueen.

"You'll be a month reaching the three forks and you'll need three months' grub, for you might miss the caribou," said Alan, hoping to learn whether the police intended to winter in the interior or to return before the ice.

"Three months?" laughed the other, rising. "We're travelling in two canoes with flour for six months."

As Alan watched McQueen walk toward the Hudson's Bay store he said aloud: "No, you won't get John McCord. What a mess he'd make of you and Slade if you ever met him!"

Turn between pride and the desire to see Berthe, Alan sat in his cabin that evening when the afterglow had faded from the sky and the rose flush of the river surface had retreated before the purple dusk. But a few days remained now before his start to meet John McCord and Heather.

When would he again see Fort George and the girl who doubted him?

Noel was visiting at a Montagnais tipi and Alan smiled, alone with his plans. There had been a list of things to be bought for Heather through one of the Montagnais girls, a friend of Noel, to avoid suspicion.

And there was extra flour and sugar, beans and tea, that McCord wanted to cache somewhere before they lunged into the unknown tundra—a relief cache to which they could retreat if the caribou failed. Alan sat deep in thought when the yelping puppies' "woof" aroused him.

Rough from his sleep, he went to the door, listened, sniffed, then smiled.

"Hello, there! Alan Cameron! Please take care of your dog! I want to see you!"

It was the rich, throaty voice that had argued with Alan the night before at the French Company's trade-house. Alan's dark brows met in a scowl but he sent Rough to his corner and opened the door.

"Good evening! Will you come in?" he said, wondering how soon Rivard would reach Berthe with the news that Mrs. Hanbury had been at his house, and yet hoping, as this woman was a government agent, to learn more of John and Heather McCord.

Alan lit another candle and placed a chair for his caller. She smiled easily up at him while he leaned against the door.

"You're a foolish young man, Mr. Alan Cameron. Do you realize that you've ruined your reputation at Fort George?" Mrs. Hanbury leaned forward, elbows on knees, chin cupped in her graceful, well-carved hands.

As she watched Alan through her half-shut, hazel eyes. "Not only that, but you're in serious trouble with the government."

"Just what do you come to Fort George for?" he countered. "Are you here with McQueen on this man hunt, or is there something else?"

She laughed boisterously at his question, and totally unfamiliar though he was with women of the world, he caught a ring of hardness, of callousness, in her voice. "I'm a special agent of the government at Ottawa," she went on and her voice suddenly softened with suggestion, "but I'd swap secrets with a man as handsome as Alan Cameron."

She rose from her chair and stood in front of him, her knee touching his, as she looked down at him possessively. "Now if you'll tell me where you left McCord, I'll tell you just why I happen to be here."

As he watched her, hoping that, in her brazen self-confidence, she would carelessly say too much, she suddenly placed both hands on his shoulders, and gazed triumphantly down at him as if already she had won. But he smiled inwardly at her easy assumption of victory. So the rude hunter of fur was now supposed to tell all he knew when the persecuted lady from Ottawa flashed her teeth, throw back her head and looked at him through her long lashes? Well, he had also some teeth to show. Calmly brushing aside her detaining hands, he rose from his chair and, while her brain fought with her effort to wave after wave of blood stained her face, he calmly lit his pipe.

"You—what, Mrs. Special Agent?" he asked, coolly.

"Suddenly recovering her poise she stood staring at him in amazement."

Panama Canal Defence

U.S. Government Has Plans To Make It War Proof

After 22 years of operation the Panama Canal has been more than ever as "the keystone in the defence of the Western Hemisphere" and the United States Government has plans under way to make it "war proof."

The United States needs the canal not only as a vital link in the national defence plan, enabling speedy transfer of the navy from one ocean to the other, but also for its great commercial value. Since the canal opened in August, 1914, more than 100,000 commercial vessels have passed through it.

Congress this year appropriated $27,000,000 to increase the military garrison and defence equipment. To meet the needs for sea-coast defence in the Canal Zone, the War Department has recommended installation of a "great number of seacoast gun batteries, submarine mine projects, anti-aircraft batteries and search-lights and an increase of the garrison by 180 officers and 6,400 men. The present force guarding the canal comprises only 70 officers and 3,316 men.

In addition the War Department is studying plans for construction of a third set of locks in the canal. The purpose of the new locks is two-fold; they are needed to take care of the increasing traffic in the canal, and, as a defence measure, would permit swifter passage of the navy through the canal. The estimated cost of this plan is $27,000,000.

General Malin Craig, recently retired as chief of staff, stated the Panama Canal was the "keystone in the defence of the Western Hemisphere," and that it must be made impregnable.

To Aid Britain

Spiritual Ruler Of Mohammedans Enjoins His Subjects To Support Cause

The Information Ministry in London announced that the Aga Khan, spiritual ruler of 10,000,000 Mohammedans in India, Africa and Central Asia, had called upon his subjects to give "unreserved support" to the cause for which Great Britain is fighting.

It was announced that the Aga Khan had sent the following message to the president of the Ismaili executive council in Zanzibar:

"It is the first religious and secular duty of all my spiritual children in Africa to co-operate loyally and do all in their power. Heartfelt, loyal, unstinted service must now be given to the cause of the Empire which is the protector of our faith and liberty. This should be read after prayers daily and published."

The Empire affairs section of the Information Ministry's communique detailed pledges of assistance from British Guiana and Mauritius, to a list of 40,000 people in the Indian Ocean.

It said the Governor of Southern Rhodesia had mobilized all units in the territorial active force and their regular reserve in Salisbury, Bulawayo, Umtali and Queo for active service "within or beyond the borders of the colony."

Spaniards Forced To Work

Upper Classes Must Do Their Share Under Franco Regime

Even the ordinary Spaniard is a rather proud homely. He does not like to be told what to do. More especially, he does not like to be commanded to work. We imagine that still less will he fancy being told to do 12 days' work for the state without pay. That he must do such forced labor is what has been decreed by the Franco regime. The only way for an able-bodied Spaniard to escape is to pay into a government agency 15 days' wages. There are classes in Spain which have not for generations lifted a hand in the way of work. They are destined now for a taste of what reconstruction under a dictator means—Victoria, E.C., Times.

Turkish Leader Fearless

Pressure From Germany Did Not Break Fate With Allies

Slight, grey-haired, black-clad General Ismet Inonu, right hand man and successor to the late, great Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, is peculiar among statesmen in that he is quite deaf, says Time. President Ismet Inonu, who in his soldiering days wanted to go on fighting the Greeks long after the Ataturk knew he had been whipped, is also quite fearless. Into the deaf ears of his master of the Dardanelles poured blandishments, as his stout heart were hurled threats, as Ambassador Franz von Papen sought to detach Turkey from its French-British guarantees, hook it to the Swastika.

To Turkey, old-time friend of the Soviet Union with which it shares the Black Sea, news of the German-Russian Pact was almost as serious a shock as it was to Germany's friend Japan. It came just as the war was dying on a French-Turkish trade pact. It also brought on what was later described as "extraordinary pressure" from Germany. Von Papen was given an hour in which to perform his suave, bully act, then President Inonu made clear to France and Britain that he stood with them in the great line-up. Turkey, said her No. 1 editor, would stand with the Allies "even if the Reich were 10 times stronger."

Problem Child

Vision Of Nine-Year-Old Boy Made Him See Objects Upside Down

Richard Kenealy's optical nightmare is over.

The nine-year-old world - of upside-down moving objects is now right side up. No longer does he complain that he sees locomotives, automobiles, running playmates and other moving things wrong side up.

Training him to use only one eye at a time by switching opaque lens from one side to the other was credited by Dr. Edmund Krump with putting Richard's world in order. He uses both eyes now, apparently with normal results.

BOY SCOUTS WILL REPEAT SERVICES OF GREAT WAR

In ready fulfillment of the offer of their services by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Boy Scout Association, and prompt acceptance by the prime minister, the 100,000 Boy Scouts and Scout leaders of Canada are preparing to carry out their obligation of "duty to God and the King" by rendering every possible non-military wartime home service.

That this service will prove of value is indicated by the record of Scout service during the Great War, but for which many important civilian activities would have moved at a much slower pace, particularly in 1914. In practically every city or town, trained and uniformed Scouts were available in troops, or singly, to run messages on wheel or afoot, to help at a refreshment booth, a bazaar, a fund-raising entertainment; to usher at meetings, or wash dishes in a Red Cross kitchen.

As the general war work developed their activities broadened. They were used in connection with Victory Loan campaigns, and Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., and other patriotic fund drives. They met troop trains, and acted as guides and messengers. Later they met the trains of returning sick and wounded, carried their luggage, and assisted in every way possible.

At Halifax, Saint John, Quebec and Montreal, they met hospital ships. In the country districts they aided farmers whose farm hands had joined up. Many city boys also did long weeks of farm labor, through the harvest or the fruit season, without pay, or turned their earnings over to the Red Cross.

The wives and families of soldiers overseas were looked after. One Toronto Troop, in addition to a large war garden of its own, planted and tended 15 gardens for the wives of soldiers. In smaller communities there was such service as the sawing of the winter's wood for war widows, doing chores and running errands over long periods, for families without men folk.

Numbers of Scouts gave valuable service in hospitals, one Winnipeg Scout putting in a total of some 600 hours in hospital attendance. One Toronto Scout was credited with 690 hours at the folding and packing of bags at a Red Cross depot.

WHO'S GOT THE SUGAR?

Toronto, Sept. 19.—With the preserving season at its height, an appeal for prompt action to deal with reported sugar shortage was sent to the Wartime Price Board in Ottawa by Hon. P. M. Dewar, Ontario minister of agriculture. He said the situation had reached an alarmingly critical stage. The condition is said to be aggravated by the fact that Ontario fruit growers have lost many of their overseas markets.

A four-way switch in Premier King's cabinet is announced at Ottawa, with Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor, becoming minister of national defence; Hon. Norman McFarly, postmaster general, becomes minister of labor; Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions, becomes postmaster general, and Hon. Ian MacKenzie becomes minister of pensions and health.

CONSCRIPTION OF WEALTH

The idea of conscripting wealth has appealing features, and we believe the federal government eventually will take cognizance of the popular feeling in Canada in favor of the idea, and at least take steps to prevent the accumulation of large fortunes brought about as the result of the war.

It is not fair, just, nor right that one man should be called upon to go to Europe to fight for his country at $1.50 a day, while another man is permitted to make a fortune at home. There are, however, features to the proposal for wealth conscription which should be thoroughly understood. Most people think of it only in regard to rich men. Actually its operation should permeate the economic structure.

During the last war, wages in Canada rose rapidly, and prices of commodities soared. Wheat went to as high as $3.50 a bushel. Clothing, shoes, groceries, machinery, furniture, and every commodity, touched peak prices. Under a proper policy of wealth conscription that would not be permitted.

Unless the government takes over every human activity in the Dominion, there will be profiteering as a result of the war. But the government is not equipped to take over all industry, and if it endeavors to do so the result might be chaos and increased expenses. On the whole, it seems that a moderate plan of wealth conscription, operating on the basis of taxation of profits would be much better for Canada than to make the Dominion a totalitarian state in the fashion of Germany, Italy and Russia.—Hanna Herald.

TIME CHANGES

Come September—comes the radio editor's headache—time changes. It happens twice a year. You see, in the East during summer, people have to get up an hour earlier to get in all their work—while we souls in the West are able to bear up under the strain, and that makes everything just lovely—I don't think. It means a complete revision of the schedule to fit in shows that have changed time around those which have not. And then in the Fall we have to change the times all back again. The other day a kind-hearted editor of a radio publication sent all radio editors an aspirin just for the occasion. (Just a moment while I take it). That's better!

Now, we advise you to watch all radio schedules very, very closely for times of your favorite programs. Most of them will be moved to different spots. We will co-operate every way we can in keeping you posted, so keep your eye on this column.

"Where are all the naturalized Canadians we saw and heard when a promised $25 monthly dividend induced many to become Canadians?" was a query heard by some as the Service Corps said good-bye to Drumheller.

Mrs. J. P. Martin, of Blaimore, was admitted to the Clarendon hospital last week. Her infant was stillborn. Walter S. Thompson, director of publicity for the Canadian National Railways, has been appointed chairman of the Dominion Board of Censors.

Announcement was made this week that the annual Crow's Nest Pass Intercollegiate Track and Field Meet will be held at the Blaimore Athletic Stadium on Friday next, September 29th, with sports being held under the same classification as in previous years.

The announcement was made recently by Walter McLaren, provincial president of the Canadian Legion, that the Legion has decided to advocate conscription as the best method of enlistment and will urge control of man power, material wealth and industry during war time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farmer returned over the week end from an extended trip to Ontario, during which they visited many of the mining settlements to the north, including Kirkland Lake and Noranda. They travelled east by train, and returned in a new car from Toronto.

TWO MINERS KILLED
AT DRUMHELLER

The following particulars of the accident in the Hy-Grade mine at Drumheller, which resulted fatally to two men, are gleaned from the Drumheller Mail:

Joe Stafford, machine boss, and James Main, machine man, at the Hy-Grade mine, were instantly killed while at work underground on Wednesday afternoon, when a huge rock, estimated by District Mines Inspector John T. Burton to have been about seven tons, crashed from the roof.

So far as can be ascertained, a part of the cutting machine had been giving trouble and Stafford was on hand to watch its operation while Main took charge of the cutting. No warning was given as the great rock slipped out and struck the unfortunate men, snuffing out their lives. The rock came from what is termed a pot-hole in the roof, and being of a "greasy" nature, made no noise until it came in contact with the mine floor. As it struck, the rock split into two portions, weighing estimated weights of three and four tons, respectively.

A helper, one Boychuk, was near the fall when it occurred and heard nothing until the rock struck the floor. The upper part of Main's body was badly crushed, while Stafford received fatal injuries across the middle part of his body. Jacks were used to raise the rock in order to extricate the bodies.

Ernie Chesworth, Bob Anderson and Morris Blackett walked to work with James Main on Wednesday morning, the latter's first day in the mine for the 1939-40 season. Mr. Main had told the boys that he had intended enlisting in the Canadian Army at the close of the present season. Mr. Stafford, a sergeant in the local militia unit, Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, has made up his mind to have enlisted for active service next week. He is survived by his wife and one child. Mr. Main has no known relatives in the West, but it is believed there are members of his family in Nova Scotia. He was a member of the local Masonic and Elks' lodges, as well as a member of the Drumheller Volunteer Fire Brigade.

"France is moving 8,000 men to the Maginot line," announced a voice from the portable radio that has been a constant companion the last few days. Then the voice continued: "And now we have real news for you. The best car values in the city are to be found"—Chicago Tribune.

JUST A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR

Sentence in a newspaper item read: He eventually found the letter in an inside pocket of a morning coat that had been hanging in the wardrobe for months. Then a humorist comments: We don't agree with pampering the little nuisances; if they don't like our old dinner jackets, they can lump it.

There will be no election until after the next regular session of parliament in January, it was indicated by Prime Minister Mackenzie King recently. Mr. King expressed opposition to the idea of extending the regular term of office in the present circumstances. In his opinion, the people of Canada should have the right at regular periods to decide upon a government, with which right even a war should not interfere. The prime minister's words were interpreted to set at rest reports of a coalition government for Canada.

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

Miss Doris Japson, who underwent an operation last Friday in the local hospital, is reported doing nicely.

Mrs. R. Jordan and daughter Kathleen returned recently from a month's vacation spent at Vancouver. Miss June remained at the coast to attend school.

The United church parsonage was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when Rev. E. Upton united in marriage Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Price, to Jules Ancelet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ancelet, of Coleman. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractively gowned in a rust dress with matching accessories, and carrying a bouquet of mixed flowers. She was assisted by her aunt, Miss Etta Price, who chose a tailored suit of navy blue with navy accessories. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Cyril Ancelet, also of Coleman. Following the ceremony, the wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was centred with a beautiful decorated wedding cake. The happy couple have taken up residence in Coleman, where the groom is employed.

Funeral took place on Saturday morning from the Catholic church to St. Theresa's cemetery, where interment was made. Funeral arrangements were in charge of A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Funeral Home.

TRY OUR SOCIETY PRINTING

The Elks' annual carnival really went over big, and as a result a very neat sum was realized towards the swimming pool fund. Both Saturday and Monday night bazaars were largely attended by people from all parts of the district, booths were well patronized, while large numbers availed of the dancing pavilion and the refreshment stalls. All seemed to go harmoniously and everyone appeared to fall in line with the very worthy cause. Mr. Harris, of the Hutt Importing Company, of Calgary, was on hand and rendered much appreciated assistance throughout the entire affair. Draw for the cooking range was made Saturday night, A. Tiberg holding the lucky ticket. On Monday night the chesterfield suite was drawn for and won by Bert Pryde, of Hillcrest.

A War Problem

Whatever part Canada may be destined to play in the war now raging between Germany on the one hand and Great Britain, Canada, France and Poland, on the other, the fact that Western Canadian agriculture will be charged with the highly important duty of assisting in the task of supplying food commodities to the allied belligerent nations and their armies is quite clear.

What is not clear, however, is the extent to which and for how long Western Canada will be called upon or will be able to render this duty as part of its contribution towards the winning of the war. That is dependent upon many factors, such as the length of the war, the bountifulness, or otherwise, of the crop yields while the war is in progress; the extent to which the sea lanes can be kept open for the conveyance of foodstuffs and the arrangements which the allies can make, or may be forced to make by the exigencies of warfare, to ensure an uninterrupted flow of food supplies to their nationals and their fighting forces.

It would be a bold prophet who would venture to predict specific answers to some of the questions involved in these at present unknown factors. The war, for instance, may be a lengthy conflict, as predicted or more so than the "unpleasantness" of 1914-18. On the other hand it may be of very short duration. There are those who are making predictions of the length of the war, ranging all the way from twenty weeks to twenty years. The most that can be said for them is that they are only guesses, and one man's guess is as good as another's.

The Immediate Requirement

This being the case, it is impossible for the individual farmer, or even for those in charge of the nation's affairs, to devise a long range program of production and distribution of agricultural products for the entire duration of the war. All that can be done at the present time, is to so order the distribution of the crop just harvested in such manner as to ensure its delivery at such times and such places as to furnish maximum assistance in the prosecution of the war and to lay plans for production next year on an adequate scale with a similar objective in view. The former is now the problem of the government, and the Canada Wheat Board with the assistance and co-operation of the wheat pools and others marketing agencies.

The latter, the question of preparation for, and production of next year's crop, is one which will involve the co-operation of the individual farmer with the government of the country and the various distributing and marketing agencies. To what extent the quantity and type of production will be left to the discretion of the individual farmer and to what extent, if any, the exigencies of the national welfare, will warrant or necessitate directional measures over production effort on the part of the government has not, at the moment, been announced.

Whether or not any measure of government control over production is assumed, it can be taken for granted that, as long as a supreme effort may be required in the prosecution of the war with the utmost vigor, the farmers of the west will give loyal and effective support and a full quota of co-operation, even though it entail some sacrifice and the abandonment of much cherished plans for the time being.

Mistakes To Avoid

Whether, however, the farmer retains full measure of liberty in ordering his production program for the next and subsequent years, or not, it is to be hoped that plans laid down will take some cognizance of mistakes unwittingly made during the last war and efforts be made to avoid them, or, if that is impossible, to ameliorate their after effects.

During the last war, it will be remembered, a great deal of sub-marginal and marginal land was brought under the plow and seeded to wheat in a strenuous effort to meet the requirements of the allied nations for more and more food. As a result of this fine effort food that was urgently required was forthcoming and as when needed, and unquestionably the manner in which farmers responded to the call for an adequate supply of foodstuffs played an important part in the ultimate victory.

Unfortunately, however, after the war, when prices of foodstuffs dropped to peace time level, and below, farmers found they had on their hands broken land which was no longer profitable to till and seed and, as a result, much of this land became harbor for noxious weeds and "breeding grounds for insect pests which infested good lands and polluted good crops, and eventually became a problem of serious magnitude.

If it is again found necessary, in order to ensure the prosecution of the war with maximum efficiency, to again use some of these ordinarily unprofitable areas to raise bread foods, this subsequent problem should not be overlooked when plans are being made.

Consideration might well be given to the alternative possibility of increasing yields on the more profitable land by more widespread use of pure, vigorous and healthy seed and the adoption of more scientific methods of cultivation, wherever this may be practicable.

And if that is not deemed sufficient and some marginal and sub-marginal lands must be used in order that war requirements may be fully met, then some consideration should be given as to the use to which they may be put subsequently and immediate plans for their use so modified and ordered that this later contingency may be met without undue loss.

In the meantime, however, the prosecution of the war with the utmost vigor is the first claim on all citizens of Western Canada and this must be the prime and immediate objective, regardless of the sacrifices entailed.

Seeds For Export

Canada Has Entered into Both Production and Export of Many Grass and Clover Seeds

Canada has come quite definitely into both production and export of many grass and clover seeds and a recent issue of statistics from the plants products division makes interesting reading, as a number of varieties, formerly on the import list, are now transferred to the export side. Even a number of varieties, which are still imported, the amounts are greatly lessened. Alfalfa clover, for example, the production for 1938 was 7,003,000 pounds, no imports for the spring of 1939, but an export of 4,323,780 pounds from June 1st, 1938, to June 30th, 1939. In what Canada produced 4,052,000 pounds of alfalfa seed and exported 3,267,000 pounds, and imported 490 pounds.

Sweet clover seed production in 1938 was 11,820,000 pounds. Had no importation and exported 10,523,000 pounds. Timothy made a rather poor showing as, while production ran to 4,316,000, imports ran to 4,098,044. Crested wheat grass, however, makes an excellent showing, production running to 1,585,000 pounds with an import of only 2,505 pounds, but an export of 610,579. Of awnless brome, production and export nearly balanced. Production was 2,350,500 pounds and exports 2,274,504 pounds.

Unfortunately, this report does not give any idea of the price at which these seeds sold. It is known, however, that the price of alfalfa seed for 1938 was around 16c per pound and sweet clover from 3c to 4c, and while this price for sweet clover is too low for much profit, 16c for alfalfa certainly pays.

-Have Sense Of Direction

Common Tends Return Year After Year To Same Pond

According to the London Listener E. G. Boulenger, Curator of Reptiles at the London Zoo, had some queer facts to tell about the common toad. "While the common frog," he said, "lays its egg masses in the first water that is available (sometimes it even chases the water that collects in puddles), the methodical toad exhibits a queer amazing conservatism. It returns year after year to the same pond in order to undertake its domestic duties even if there are apparently equally desirable ponds between its winter quarters and the rendezvous—which might be over half-a-mile apart.

These annual cavalcades are usually made in the dark and the toads show a truly amazing sense of direction. It has been shown that by experiment. Some years ago I filled a large bag with toads from a particular pond and I turned them loose half-a-mile away. Without exception one and all of them (after a few tentative hops) sallied forth to the pond they had been taken from. I may say that for the purpose of the test I saw to it that there were other ponds near the place where I had turned them loose.

SELECTED RECIPES

LEMON SNOW

1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
Few shavings lemon rind
3 tablespoons Benson's or Canada Corn Syrup
3 tablespoons cold water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Whites of two eggs
Make a syrup of water, sugar and lemon rind. Boil five minutes. Remove rind. Mix corn starch with cold water; pour gradually into syrup, stirring until thick. Cook for 10 minutes. Remove from heat, add strained lemon juice and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Blend with dove butter; turn into moistened moulds and chill. Serve with Lemon Custard Sauce. Six servings.

GRAHAM NUT MUFFINS

1 cup sifted flour
1 cup Graham flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup coarsely broken walnut meats
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
Sift flour once, measure, add Graham flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt, and mix again. Add walnuts and mix. Combine egg, milk, and shortening; add to flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 minutes or until done. Makes 18 small muffins.

Cars In Bermuda

Colony's Famous Rule About Motor Traffic Is Rescinded

Two of Bermuda's most widely known prohibitions—one on motor cars, the other on woman suffrage—went toppling in the wake of the war.

The assembly passed a bill breaking the colony's famous rule against motor traffic because of war conditions. The governor may now operate motor vehicles of all sorts on Bermuda roads for the duration of the war.

It was disclosed also that under the Emergency Powers Act recently passed, the governor, now Major General Denis Kirwan Bernard, has the power to grant woman suffrage, for which the women of Bermuda have fought fruitlessly but steadily for many years.

Sorcerers Appear To Be Still A Real Power In The Land

Sir Hubert Murray, governor of Papua, believes that despite 50 years of government and missionary work among the natives of New Guinea, "humbugging sorcerers still are the real power in the land."

In his annual report the governor said "officers complain that the fear of sorcery prevents natives from assisting them in the arrest of murderers." The report also said "devil trees" hindered a survey of a proposed airbase because the natives refused to work until they were coaxed by a "spectacular" fireworks display that the devils had been driven away.

Parrot Did Not Long Survive Death Of Parasita Cat

Although parrots and cats are natural deadly enemies, the case of Polly and Blackie was an exception. Both pets of Perry Bauer of New Haven, Conn., became friends at first sight four years ago and were inseparable companions.

When Blackie, a Persian, took ill and died, Polly grieved for two days, refused to eat and finally passed away of a broken heart.

Perry said the parrot was at least 108 years old and was brought to America in 1830 after being found aboard a pirate craft in the China Sea.

An Important Study

Children Should Have Musical Education States Dean Of McGill

"In children lies the only hope for the musical future of this Dominion," says Douglas Clarke, dean of the McGill University Faculty of Music.

"Educate the children in music. They must be told about music, how to listen to it and who made it, urges Mr. Clarke, who thinks that music may well be incorporated in the regular school curriculum, believing that the study of music can do as much to train the mind as Latin, Euclid and algebra, and that it leaves something of real practical value with the student after life.

Mr. Clarke believes that in addition to lessons and practice, children should be given an opportunity of hearing constructive talks on music appreciation. For school work, he suggests that the gramophone would be invaluable in this regard as the child could follow the evolution of music through a series of records in addition to learning to recognize the sounds of the various orchestral instruments.

Mr. Clarke makes a very earnest plea that children should have music. "Let them know the one art, which, above all others has the power to unfold the unsuspected beauties of life," he urges.

BRITAIN TO HALT FLOW OF SUPPLIES TO GERMAN PORTS

London.—The information ministry reassured neutral countries its contraband control would not interfere with their normal trade.

Charging the German wireless with distorting the policy of the contraband control to make it appear as if neutral trade was being "strangled, bringing starvation and death to old people," the information ministry added:

"Britain does not seek to dictate to any neutral government . . . and no attempt is being made in any way to prevent the normal importation into neutral countries of foodstuffs and their goods and material destined for their own consumption.

"Opinion in neutral countries will be able to judge for itself from what quarter there is any threat to their neutrality, whether it be from the openly proclaimed contraband policy of the Allies or the submarine campaign and its thinly veiled menaces emanating from Germany."

Taking note of German charges that Britain has obtained Arab cooperation in the war by threats of bribery, the ministry said:

"This accusation has been made specifically in the case of views put forward by a prominent Arab newspaper in Palestine, Falastin.

"The accusation can be dismissed at once by appreciating the standing of this newspaper. Similar tokens of loyalty have come from many other sources. The only other Arab paper in Palestine, 'Alidfaa,' in its leading article recently, reaffirms the determination of Arabs in Palestine to support Britain and the Allies."

The British government intensified its drive to halt the flow of war supplies to Germany, declaring that "already large quantities of contraband have been stopped and prevented from reaching the enemy."

The admiralty disclosed the Nieuw Amsterdam, flagship of the Holland-America line, was examined for contraband and that more than a score of ships were detained off the south-east coast for searching British ships.

Previously the ministry of economic warfare had announced seizure of the cargo of the Netherlands steamer Gronio as suspected contraband and the sequestration of an American ship, the Black Osprey.

The Nieuw Amsterdam and the Black Osprey were released after search.

British Blockade

Reported Germans May Send Planes To Bomb Harbors

New York.—A dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of a Copenhagen newspaper. It asserted that Germany's answer to the British blockade will be to send 3,000 planes to bomb British harbors.

"Butter for butter and fat for fat" is the new motto in Germany, the correspondent reported. He said that destruction of British harbors is considered by Berlin to be the most effective counter-measure to the British blockade. He reported also that Germany's answer to the blockade will be given by submarines.

New P.E.I. Governor

Ottawa.—Prime Minister King announced the appointment of Hon. Bradford W. LePage as lieutenant-governor of Prince Edward Island. Mr. LePage succeeds Hon. George Den Brisy De Blois also of Charlottetown. The new lieutenant-governor of the island province will assume his duties October 1, the brief announcement by the prime minister said.

Ready To Serve Again

Vancouver.—The ex-16th battalion Canadian Scottish association whose motto in the Great War was "First in the Field and Last to Leave It," have offered their services to Canada for a second time. The 2,000 members propose to form a unit for home defence if the regular defence units are sent overseas as an expeditionary force.

Troops Cheer, Aged Duke

London.—The Duke of Connaught, grand-uncle of the King, inspected the second battalions of the Grenadier and Irish Guards. The 89-year-old duke, wearing the uniform of a field marshal, was loudly cheered by the troops.

Blood Transfusion

London.—"Blood banks" for speedy supply of blood for transfusion to British war hospitals are being established in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, Aberdeen and Inverness.

Army Enlistments

Men With More Than Two Children May Not Be Accepted

Ottawa.—The man with more than two children doesn't stand much chance of getting into the Canadian wartime forces just now.

The government has decided that the first recruits sought are those independent single men without family responsibilities and ties, and the only family men who will be accepted on the enlistment rolls for a while at least are those with only one or two children.

Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the upper house, told the chamber just before the special war parliament prorogued that the problem of enlisting family men had been considered and it is now the government policy not to accept those with more than two children.

The government leader made the statement when the question was raised concerning enlistment of fathers of large families and the necessity of the government to pay dependent allowances for such men while single men are called up.

"Some of these men have answered the call because they were officers in the militia," said Senator Dandurand, "but I may say that the policy of the government is to see that single men are called up and that men with more than two children are refused."

"Those who have already answered the call have done so because they belong to the militia and services of those who have large families will be dispensed with."

"I think an order will go out that men with more than two children will not be accepted," he added.

Campaign For Silence

Italy Is Making Attempt To Stop Rumors About War

Rome.—Silence regarding the war has been enforced in an attempt to strengthen Italy's neutrality and maintain the present atmosphere of calm.

The press said the campaign would especially seek to eliminate back fence gossiping by housewives and the spreading of false rumors.

The newspaper Il Piccolo announced that three offenders, one a Jew, had been arrested in Genoa on charges of spreading rumors and had been sentenced to enforced domicile on one of Italy's islands.

"Il Duce's order to work in silence must be strictly obeyed," Il Piccolo said. "Every Italian, at this moment, more than ever, must have a sense of responsibility, love of country and attachment to the Fascist regime which made Italy both respected and feared."

The newspaper Il Lavoro Fascista, in a front page editorial, said Italians had no reason to spread rumors because they were given all the news contained in Polish, British, French and German communiques.

War Aims

Great Britain Would Free Czech People From Foreign Domination

London.—Great Britain looks forward "to the relief of the Czech people from foreign domination" as a result of the war against Hitlerism. Prime Minister Chamberlain made his declaration of policy in the House of Commons when outlining briefly Britain's war aims.

In reply to Vyvyan Adams, Conservative, the prime minister declared:

"I would refer the honorable member to my message to Dr. Benes (Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia) in which I said that we looked forward, through the triumph of the principles for which we have taken up arms, to the release of the Czech people from foreign domination."

Winnipeg Grain Exchange

Winnipeg.—G. S. Matheson, assistant manager of Norris Grain Company, Limited, was elected president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange for the year 1939-40. He succeeds John W. Horn who was given a two-year term on the council of the exchange. Vice-presidents elected for 1939-40 are C. Gordon Smith and Stewart A. Searle.

Ten Sons in Army

Thonon-Les-Bains, France.—Ten sons of a local woman have been mobilized in the French army, it was revealed here. All save the oldest, who served in the Great War and is a lieutenant, are privates. The mother is the widow of a fisherman.

Cut Relief Costs

Vancouver.—Two hundred married men, receiving unemployment relief, have enlisted in Canada's defence forces since the war began, and a considerable saving in Vancouver relief expenditures has resulted.

Spies In Russia

Six Violators Are Liquidated On Southern Frontier

Moscow.—"Liquidation" of six violators of Soviet Russia's "southern frontier" was reported in the newspaper Red Star.

The country from which the six crossed the frontier was not specified, but it possibly was Rumania or Turkey. The report said two were shot while trying to escape and the other four were "liquidated."

The same newspaper said a spy named "Ignat" was arrested within the western frontier and after a trial at Smolensk was "given what he deserved." The report indicated he was charged with espionage on behalf of Poland and Great Britain.

SUB WARFARE MAY BE EXTENDED TO AMERICAN SIDE

London.—The ministry of information gave its first hint the war might conceivably cross to the American side of the Atlantic ocean.

It issued a brief communique saying the British government had reason to believe Germany might attempt to establish submarine and air bases on the coasts of South and Central America countries.

"This hint came shortly after the London government served explicit warning on Fuehrer Hitler that it would claim a free hand for itself if the German campaign carries out its threat to crush Polish civilian resistance by bombing open towns and villages."

Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, sounded the warning in the house of lords while Prime Minister Chamberlain was telling the House of Commons that Britain and France were determined to end once and for all the "intolerable strain of living under the perpetual threat of Nazi aggression."

The brief communique on America said the government had instructed its envoys to countries of South and Central America "to invite the governments to which they are accredited to take all steps which may be necessary to prevent any breaches of their neutrality."

The ministry of information carried Mr. Chamberlain's statement of Allied war policy a step further by intimating that Britain and France never would negotiate peace terms with Germany as long as Hitler remained leader of the reich.

Lord Halifax told the lords Britain's undertaking to limit aerial bombing to military objectives was based on Germany's guarantee to observe the same humanitarian precept.

"His Majesty's government must hold themselves completely free, if such restraint is not in fact observed, to take such action as they may deem appropriate," Lord Halifax said.

The Polish embassy issued a statement declaring that up to Sept. 3, the day Britain and France declared war, about 30 cities and open towns in Poland had been bombed. The statement was made in reply to Nazi threats to bomb open towns if Polish enigma was not stopped.

Civilian casualties according to official figures, the embassy said, totalled more than 1,500 killed on Sept. 2 and 3, mostly women and children.

Sunk By Sub

Tramp Ship That Carried Grain From Churchill Was Torpedoed

New York.—The United States Scantline liner Scampenn radioed its New York office that the crew of the British freighter Firby, torpedoed and sunk, had been rescued.

The brief message said: "S.S. Firby crew rescued by another vessel."

The number of the Firby's crew was not known here.

A 4,640-ton vessel in the Canada-England trade, she was sunk 250 miles northwest of the Hebrides (Scotland) Islands.

The Firby is a tramp ship which has carried more than one cargo of Western Canadian wheat from Churchill to Europe. In 1938 this boat, in two deliveries, handled over 500,000 bushels of wheat and before the outbreak of the war was scheduled to arrive at Churchill the early part of this month for another shipment of Canadian grain.

Rubber Tires Confiscated

Citizens Of Germany Must Surrender Those Not In Use

Berlin.—Adopting a stringent economy measure, Germany has announced confiscation by the state of every privately-owned rubber tire not in use in the reich.

The confiscation order, issued by the federal bureau for rubber and asbestos with the approval of the ministry of economics, was in conjunction with a gasoline decree which practically prohibits private use of automobiles after Sept. 20.

Collection stations to which citizens will be obliged to bring new, partly used and worn-out tires are being established.

Tires in dealers' stock and reserve tires owned by individuals but not actually on cars or spare wheels must be delivered to the collection agencies.

Special Envois

London.—Will Lawther and H. H. Elvin, special emissaries of the trades union congress, will leave England for Canada and the United States. They will bear messages telling their brother trades unionists of the British working class movement's determination to stand behind the government until victory is achieved in the war against Hitlerism.

Bureau Of Information

Government May Establish Agency To Keep Public Informed

Ottawa, Ont.—The Ottawa Journal publishes the following report:

The government is expected to announce very shortly the establishment of a bureau of information through which the country will be kept informed at regular intervals of the progress of Canada's war efforts.

This would involve all steps taken in the country such as would be in the public interest to divulge, and also future measures of extra-territorial significance.

The plan is to have a Canadian set-up along the lines of the new ministry of information in London through which official reports of the British government's war measures are given.

The name of L. W. Brockington, chairman of the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, has been mentioned for the post of chairman of the new bureau. The ablest men available in Canada for this public information work would be chosen as members of the bureau.

DECLARE BRITAIN WILL NEVER MAKE PEACE WITH HITLER

London.—Great Britain will never make peace with Adolf Hitler, the ministry of information reiterated, declaring in a communique that no treaty could be reached with a leader who does not keep his word.

A "trustworthy" German government, the statement said, might meet with a different attitude from the allies.

The communique: Well informed circles in London are considerably interested in stories which are reaching them from various quarters of offers of peace which may be made.

The position of His Majesty's government and of the French government has already been made plain.

It is that they could only negotiate peace with a government in Germany whose word can be trusted, so that there would be a certainty for the future.

This could not be expected of Hitler, whose technique of brutal aggression against one non-German country after another is now obvious to all.

Once a trustworthy government is in power in Germany, and the wrong done righted, the British government would not doubt be ready, as they have repeatedly made known, to consider in consultation with their allies and other friendly powers how a just and fair peace could be established in Europe.

In such circumstances it would also be possible to examine how economic conditions could be re-adjusted so as to allow all countries to derive mutual benefit from the resources of the world.

In a second communique the ministry of information said:

The propaganda ministry in Berlin is evidently at great pains to conceal from the German public the firm determination of the British and French governments to refuse all compromise with the Nazi regime.

Recent official statements confirming that resolve have been appended. The public is given to understand that Germany can make peace with Poland on the basis of restoration of former German provinces and that it will then be pointless for Great Britain and France to continue the struggle against the reich.

German propaganda, according to these reports, is being chiefly concentrated on Great Britain, and little is being said about France, while French action on the western front is described as a series of minor frontier incidents of no importance.

Secure Meat Supplies

Buenos Aires.—The national meat board had under consideration negotiations with Great Britain, and France to buy 200,000 tons of beef above the regular export quotas from Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil. Great Britain, it was reported, wants 170,000 tons and France the rest. The meat board was said to be asking about 13 cents a kilogram (equivalent to approximately $5.90 cwt.).

Should Grow More Vegetables

London.—An ambitious plan to step up Great Britain's farm production was announced by the ministry of agriculture. The ministry told farmers an additional 1,500,000 acres must be brought under the plow during the coming year, and urged allotment holders to grow more vegetables.

ONLY AUTHENTIC NEWS TO BE GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC

London.—The ministry of information will supply only "true information" and "authentic news" to the British public and the foreign press, Lord Macmillan, minister of information, told the House of Lords.

"I should rather we gave less information and true information than that we issued to neutral and foreign countries a vast mass of material which was unreliable and untrue," he said. "In the long run I think the foreign press will appreciate the fact that what they receive from us is authentic news and statements only."

"On this important matter of assisting the press to handle war news, arrangements have been made with the war office to send down a general staff officer of high rank to give confidential talks to accredited representatives of the press at weekly intervals."

"Officers of the admiralty and air ministry will also talk to the press confidentially on special occasions."

Lord Macmillan agreed in general with the criticisms as to the true functions of the department, he said. "One can understand that those who are engaged in the actual work of war are reluctant to talk about it," he said, adding:

"But I think in a democracy like ours even the fighting services will have to become publicly minded, not in a sense of disclosing anything of military value or of comfort to our enemies, but to remember that there is a home front as well as a front of war and that the maintenance of the spirit and morale of our people is of almost as much consequence in its contribution to victory as the morale of the fighting forces."

No Overseas Troops

South Africa Not Planning To Send Troops At Present

London.—The ministry of information said General Jan Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, has announced the Union for the moment does not intend to send troops overseas.

General Smuts added, however, it was to the African dominion's interest to be in the war rather than wait until Fuehrer Hitler demands restitution of former German Southwest Africa.

Discussing the wartime role to be played by the Union General Smuts said:

"Our role is limited to the protection and defence of the Union and its interests, including Southwest Africa. Under the Defence Act no use could be ordered of the service beyond the limit of South Africa, but no one could tell how the war would extend and the Union might have to utilize all its resources to protect its territory."

"The use of troops for operations overseas is intended neither by the government nor by parliament."

The message said the Nazi creed "is in conflict with our spiritual and political traditions and the national outlook of South Africa, and renders any sincere attitude of neutrality in the present struggle impossible in practice."

German Pacifists

Underground Opponents Of The Nazi Regime Operating In Germany

Paris.—The Zurich correspondent of the Paris Star reported that a widespread hunt for spies, pacifists and underground opponents of the Nazi regime is underway in Germany. This was a result of increasing signs of resistance against war.

The correspondent said reports reaching Switzerland told of successive raids staged by the German secret police following the discovery that secret anti-Nazi groups were operating successfully in Berlin and other large German cities. He also described the success of other underground groups of the nationalist stamp operating in Moravia, Bohemia and Austrian Slovakia.

News From Poland

Poles Claim To Have Shot Down 280 German Planes

Lublin, Poland.—The official Polish telegraphic agency claimed 280 German planes have been shot down in Poland since the beginning of the war.

The agency said that 13,000 Germans, 350 of them officers, have been made prisoners in that time. Material taken from the agency said included 45 Nazi cannon, 215 machine guns and more than 1,000 army automobiles.

A cheque for $2,500, to be used for the construction and equipping of a modern stage in the proposed theatre to be built for the Banff School of Fine Arts, has been received by President W. A. R. Kerr, of Alberta University, from Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A writer to the Innisfail Province, commenting on the brutal and cowardly practice of shooting pet dogs, remarks: "This type of being will never be found at the butt end of a rifle in the present emergency. You see, if the insect keeps a reasonable distance from the dog, there is no danger of attack by the dog, and this is the kind of bravery shown by this type of human being."

The work of hard-surfacing the highway between Maple Leaf and McGillivray Hill to the stage intended by this fall's programme was completed the early part of the week, and local district motorists, as well as transients, are enjoying the improved state of the highway. It is understood a further seal coat will be applied in the spring. Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, with other officials, inspected the work on Tuesday, and expressed satisfaction with the job.

William Heibeln, well known Coleman barber, passed away in Coleman hospital on Thursday morning, following a lengthy illness. He was 69 years of age, and had been in the barber business in Coleman for the past twenty-six years. He was a native of Owen Sound, Ontario. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, George and Frank, and three daughters, Louise at home, Mrs. Fred Emery in Coleman, and Mrs. Reg. Jarman in Victoria, B.C. Funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Local and General Items

The Editor will be glad to receive items for this section, regarding visitors, entertainers, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, showers, presentations, anniversaries, etc. Phone items in to 11 or hand them in at The Enterprise office not later than Thursday evenings.

Since the Nazi accession to power, the German army has cost 36 billion dollars.

During a slack week in the High River district a number of babies were born.

A restaurant owner in Berlin was fined $400 for offering guests a choice of two meat dishes. Hitler drafted the menu.

Space in our columns formerly used to boost Mr. Aberhart and Social Crediters is now available to paid-up subscribers.

James Bennett, former farmer resident of Cowley, now residing at Mount Lehman, B.C., was a visitor to his old haunts during the week.

Twins arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Morgan the early part of the week, both boys. The mother is a beautiful cocker spaniel.

Mr. N. Anderson, proprietor of Meadow Sweet Dairies, who had been in hospital at Spokane for a short period, returned home the early part of last week.

A Youngstown district farmer lost 90 head of sheep from poisoning, presumed to be due to drinking water infected with arsenic from gopher and grasshopper poison used during the summer.

People are growing lazier every day, and to meet that emergency we have sliced bread, self-sealing envelopes, etc. Such items would surely be detested by our forefathers. Then they sing "Work, brothers, work; let us slumber no longer." It is to laugh!

Rev. Canon S. H. Middleton and Mrs. Middleton, of St. Paul's Indian residential school, Cardston, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Verdun Kathleen, to Mr. Robert Hunt, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frazier Hunt, of Eden Valley Ranch, High River, the marriage to take place early in October.

Officers of the Fernie Council of the Knights of Columbus were installed last week. They include: Thomas Caulfield, grand knight; Edward Coughlin, deputy grand knight; W. Caulfield, chancellor; Max Belesky, financial secretary; J. Harrington, recording secretary; J. B. George, treasurer, and Rev. J. J. Morelli, chaplain.

We were slightly in error last week in stating that Mrs. Rose Miller had been remanded by the district court here for trial before the criminal assizes. The remand was made at the criminal and civil sitting of the Supreme Court at Macleod. J. L. Fawcett, K.C., of Macleod, is acting for the crown, with S. G. Bannan, of Blairmore, defending.

Mr. R. L. Large, L.P.C., B.C. and Alberta, has accepted a position as clerk at Scott's Drug Store. "Dick" is son of Dr. H. L. Large, and has served his apprenticeship in pharmacy with Scott's, and will be welcomed by many of his old friends here. Mr. Large has been on the staff of the Blairmore Pharmacy for the past two or three years.—Cranbrook Courier.

A note to Charles Clark, of the Times, from Rev. Dalgleish observes: "I had not thought of you crashing the Woman's Page of the Christian World. However, here is the evidence. It is worthy of echoes across the Atlantic." And Mr. Dalgleish encloses "the evidence," which is a verse on the Queen, written by Col. Hugh Clark, and published in Col. Hugh Clark's "Comments" in the Times. The verse started: "I used to think I'd hate to be His Majesty the King" and concludes "I changed my mind the day I saw the Queen."—High River Times.

Two per cent of our population is always too sick to work.

Ninety-seven men travelled by boat and portage from Yellowknife to Edmonton to enlist.

Charged under the Forest Act with failing to fight fire when ordered to do so, Metro Kosmick, of Creston, was fined $25 and costs.

Mrs. D. Kemp, senior, after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. T. McKay, at Creston, is now visiting with her son James (Puffy) at Kimberley.

It is well to remember that the hard work we do today will make tomorrow easier for us when today is yesterday.

G. M. Blackstock, K.C., of Medicine Hat, has been appointed chairman of the provincial board of public utilities, succeeding Judge Carpenter.

The town council of Kemptville, Ontario, subscribed $30 to their local Boy Scouts' fund, to ensure that every Scout could attend camp for the benefit of training.

Saturday was one of the busiest days of the season for Blairmore stores and Blairmore in general. A big drawing card for the evening and night was the Elks' carnival.

It was clearly demonstrated during the heavy wind on Sunday afternoon last that the hard-surfacing of a strip through the centre of Blairmore's main street does not entirely allay the dust menace.

William M. Peel and John H. W. S. Kemmis, of Calgary, were among twenty members elevated to the rank of honorary inspectors-general 33 degrees by the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Masons in Canada at sessions in Fort William.

The Canadian dollar is at a discount of around 13 per cent under the U. S. dollar. Merchandise imported from the States is consequently up in price. In Shelby, Montana, Canadian money is accepted only at a 25 per cent discount. Increased Canadian indebtedness is anticipated, hence the discount on the Dominion money.

A special session of the U.S. Congress opened in Washington yesterday. The sole object of the session is to amend the neutrality act of 1937, principally one change: repeal of the arms embargo clause under which it already has forbidden the export of arms, ammunition, and instruments of war to all belligerents.

Two Calgary boys have been awarded the University of Alberta matriculation scholarships. Edwin George Pulleyblank and Harry Walter Hagood. The scholarships provide for three years' tuition fees at the university, and are open to competition among Grade XII students attending Alberta high schools, exclusive of Edmonton.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving service took place at the United church on Sunday evening last. The church was very beautifully adorned with cut flowers, fruits, etc. Special music was provided by the orchestra and junior girls' choir, and a solo was rendered by Miss Fraser. An appropriate discourse was delivered by the pastor, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A.

Radio's annual headache—the scheduled-disrupting, habit-changing switch from daylight saving to standard time—comes into effect tomorrow, Saturday, at midnight. Simultaneously, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will embark on its winter season. Clocks in Eastern Canada will be moved back an hour, but the only material effect in the West will be in the change of listening times for network programmes. As a general rule, all CBC programmes will be heard one hour later than usual.

Trans-Canada Airways has carried 13,533 passengers in five months.

The hamlet of Kinsella, Alberta, voted 201 for beer licenses and 95 against.

More than three hundred Alberta nurses already have enrolled for wartime special duty.

Alex. Blas left for Calgary the early part of last week to join the Royal Canadian Engineers.

When asked if bicycling gave her a headache, a local young girl said, "Oh, no, on the contrary!"

Just as Taber had been looking forward to a brighter future they are threatened with a treasury branch.

St. Anne's annual Charity Bazaar will be held in the Columbus hall, Blairmore, on Wednesday, November 15th.

Local district clergy report quite a number of enlistments lately for future undeclared wars. And Frank approved of many of them.

The Columbus Club will stage the first of their fall season dances in the Columbus hall on Friday night next, with the Arcadians supplying music.

Joe Louis disposed of Bob Pastor via the kayo route on Wednesday night in the start of the eleventh round. Pastor put up a splendid fight and was acknowledged the favorite in the tenth round.

An interesting tourist through Blairmore this week was a young kangaroo pugilist. It was released from its cage for a few moments and given a few rounds in training, then appeared at the Orpheum theatre here and Cole's at Bellevue.

The marriage of Miss Anne Barbara, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wasmock, senior, of Fernie, to Mr. Frederick Bennett, only son of Mr. Frederick Bennett and the late Mrs. Bennett, of Fernie, took place at Fernie on Sunday last, Rev. Father Morelli officiating.

With the opening of the season for Hungarian partridge on October 2nd, it might be well to mention that the new Chukar partridge, somewhat similar, are protected. They are larger than the hun, and their coloring is distinctly marked with bright orange stripes down their wings, their heads and legs being quite red.

Mr. Douglas, who for some considerable time has been accounting with the Satoris Lumber Co. and Blairmore Motors, has resigned that position to take a new post in Calgary, and with his family will be leaving Blairmore during the week end. His successor has not yet been named.

There are at least three or four young men in the Pass who look more cheerful since the announcement that there'd be no conscription in Canada. Their period of hibernation was, as a result, cut short.

Communist Alderman Stewart Smith, of Toronto, has been getting himself a lot of publicity of late by uttering seditious statements. He has been rightly pounced upon from the right as well as the left. So far, so good, but the headline writer who reported a resolution of the Originals Club of Toronto as urging his "internment" was going, we think, a bit too far.—Financial Post.

A Responsibility For Value

THE liner which has made a fast crossing of the Atlantic, ever afterwards lives under the obligation of its own record. Each successive voyage is compared, and should the liner descend into the ruck of the six or seven day vessels, there would gather round its name something of disappointment. So it is with high achievement in any sphere.

A boxer who has held the world's heavyweight title and goes down to the punch from a new comer, becomes the laughing stock of sports writers and fans. The baseball or hockey team which is at the top of the league and goes down to defeat at the hands of a little known team, becomes a target for wits. People refuse to accept anything short of perfect, once a high standard has been established.

Every business has a personality that is deep-seated. The personality of a business can't be changed by changing its newspaper or the size of its price tickets. A commissionaire at the door doesn't give a business dignity or a name-plate in bronze make it artistic. These are only superficialities.

Over the years EATON'S has built up an enviable reputation for value, giving, and the responsibility sits heavily on our shoulders. The personality of this Company is to give Service and Value—nothing short of which is acceptable.
